

BENEFITS OF STUDYING UNIVERSITY OF LONDON INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMMES

AT REGENT'S INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE

Studying at Regent's International College offers several benefits and advantages to students taking University of London International Programmes.

HOW DOES IT WORK ?

1. You can register online for the University of London (UK) at Regent's International College and receive teaching and study support towards your University of London Bachelor's Degree.
2. You will receive academic and teaching support through intense tutorials and teaching of approximately 16 hours a week at Regent's International College. Full time students will be expected to complete additional 30 hours per week personal study.
3. You will work on the University of London International Programmes past exam papers with assistance and advice from Regent's International College lecturers and tutors. You will follow our structured academic courses to give you the required in-depth knowledge demanded at an international level.
4. You will be able to use all campus study facilities (library, study areas, computers, etc.) and recreational facilities (swimming pool, football pitch, basketball court, badminton court, lounge areas, etc.) at Regent's International College.

5. You will take examinations at the British Council in Bangkok. All examinations papers are written and marked by the academics from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), which provide academic direction for these EMFSS undergraduate programmes. This means that students benefit from the academic rigor and leading-edge research undertaken by LSE. It also helps to ensure that University of London qualifications are at the same high academic standards, however they are achieved.

6. On successful completion of your studies you will be invited to attend the graduation ceremony in London. The degree certificate you be awarded will state that you were registered with the University of London and the examinations were conducted by LSE without the mention of the Bangkok centre.

7. Completed exams will give you transferable credits to move across 75 centers worldwide.

8. On successful completion of the first year of the Bachelor's degree studies, students may have the option to enroll at LSE in London for their second year but must return to any centre outside of the LSE campus to do the third year.
